Terrible Abolition Crusade!

The Eugene Review has found a veritable mare's nest which it thus describes

We have at from undoubted authority that the Yankee hordes which now hold sway in Missouri, in addition to their other barbarous excesses, are making a new and unheard of cruelty They make incursions into the country, capture men, women and children and then dispose of all their prisoners thus All men and heads of families whom they do not murder they banish North the wives and grown daughters are sent South the young men are impressed until they consent to bear arms in support of the Administration until the small children even babies are retained so that they may be sent to kinsmen and there be educated agreeable to the notions and principles These Yankee invasions for years prevailed and the base hellish deeds perpetrated mothers from their infants until the very whites of their eyes turned pale with horror at the thought, though they all the time knew that no such thing was permitted in any slave State But now the same sanctimonious villains actually engage in the inhuman, savage work and steal the infants and tender children from their mothers and hurry or exile the fathers, in order that they may commence at the cradle or nursery to tear the affections in their own accursed abolition faith And the Administration knows that this monstrous practice is constantly carried on, but rather commends than censures it

Let us shake up this precious mess of Democratic pottage, and see to what it all amounts First, however, it may be well to say that it is an utter falsehood, and the "undoubted authority" the Review talks of, is simply its own treasonable brain, which is authority for nothing but its intense and foolish disloyalty It proves that, every week, and nothing more or less No Yankee horde holds sway in Missouri, the State is governed by its own citizens, who, by the assistance of the General Government, have been enabled to keep it out of the hands of the infamous and barbarous friends of the Review, who tried to make it join the rebellion The scheme failed, and so every sympathizer was mad, and began to lie about Yankee hordes tramping on the rights of Missourians, precisely as a thief would complain because the police interfered with his plots for robbing the community But the awful wickedness which vexes the righteous soul of the Review seems to be concentrated in the efforts of Yankees to remove the children of traitors from mischievous influences and actually to educate them as abolitionists Truly a horrible purpose, and likely to result in making the offspring of butternuts respectable and useful members of society, and sufficiently intelligent and patriotic, to be unwilling to follow the advice of such treasonable organs as the Review The prospect of this result is doubtless very alarming and justifies the wrath of those who hate education, and "love darkness rather than light, because their deeds are evil,"—but we do not believe that the parties benefited and blessed by this alleged good Samaritan operation, will thank the Review for interfering with the noble work nor for comparing them with the children of slaves, of whom their owners make merchandise The Review says "no such thing was permitted in any slave State," and thereby shows its gross ignorance or wilful falsehood There are hundreds of citizens in Oregon, from slave States, who will testify that they have often known of the separation of children from their parents and their sale at the owner's wish Slavery gives this power and the selfish cupidity which the system fosters, prompts its frequent exercise In fact, Virginia made most of its wealth by slave breeding for the cotton States, as everybody knows, if the Review does not, it can easily get information, from some of its sympathizing friends We trust that all this atrocious iniquity is to be forever stopped, and if the Yankees, who are the teachers of the land, will undertake the business of instructing the children of the poor whites, and of the degraded slave-holders of Missouri, who, with treason in their hearts are striving to destroy the Government, and to curse themselves and their families, the Yankees will do a good thing, and add another to the many causes of gratitude which the country recognizes as justly due to them for generous deeds and patriotic services already performed

NEW DEFINITION —At a recent Union meeting in New York Col Gibbs of Tennessee, thus aptly defined the kind of Democracy which now opposes the Government

Negro wet up with mean whisky spoiled up with State Rights and Squatter Sovereignty and the platform was

A little water to make it weak
A little sugar to make it treat A little lemon to make it sour
And any amount of bald headed white fly to give it power

EMPLOYMENT OF SOUTHERN WOMEN —A writing letter writer says no lazy lawful or flirtatious creature more completely unfits the heart of husband for a childhood than does the high born South on plantation in these evil times What a life would be his own if the beloved one should be overtaken because like a true woman she refused to provide herself and household with the daily comforts of life and betook herself to the field to hoe the cotton while the husband went to the front to fight for his country Such a wife will refuse a pretty woman any request

Report of Mr Elliott in regard to the California and Oregon Railroad

We find in the Marysville Appeal Mr Elliott's report, which we should be glad to publish in full Passing however for lack of space some portions, we come to

THE LINE OF SURVEY

Commencing at Marysville the line extends up the Sacramento valley on the east side through the towns of Cheroke up the same about one mile to which point Redding the head of navigation of the river will be reached by a bridge of 100 feet in length The bridge will rest upon two piers built upon the bank of the river at the point of commencement and termination of the water These piers each two abutments will form a total for a bridge of three spans of 200 feet each The line of survey might cross the river at this point passing the mouth of Clear Creek into the bottom of Cotton wood creek Hence along the course of the present county road to the Canyon House thence up the same about two miles

Fun to-night.—We hope none of our will forget the entertainment provided ing by the ladies of the Methodist at Thompson's Hall. The object is worthy the cordial patronage of our s, as the use of the Methodist Church been most generously given for public purpose, consistent with morality . It is but just that such oftliberality should be reciprocated, and to this, all ought to feel an interest our churches in good repair, not cause they are the temples of the Most but because the taste and care of a ity, in this respect are very likely to as tests of their general refinement.
has been arranged with great skill; y should go, and be as liberal as will permit.

The Vexed Question of City Taxes.— considerable dissatisfaction has been of late ed with regard to the action of the ials in the matter of taxes. Some, said, made a tender of their taxes in per yesterday, which was refused.
have paid their taxes under protest. ir class, comprising a very large num-our heaviest tax-payers, have joined to resist the collection of what they to be an illegal tax. The grounds upon they contend that the tax is unlawful, numerous, and among them it is urged the ordinance levying the tax is in viola-of the city charter, as it fails to specify clearly the object for which it is levied, which the appropriation is made. That ordinance itself was signed contrary to by the Recorder, while the Mayor was in . Some of the other objections charge ration to benefit private property in par-localities. The Courts will probably the merits of the case, and the people will be taxed to pay the fiddler pending ter set in our municipal farce.

Dog Poisoning.—Scarcely a day es in the which we do not hear of some dog being destroyed by poison. Yesterafternoon after dinner, Mr. W. B. Mend had dog to leave his splendid New Foundland ard while he absented himself for ten es, and upon his return found the noble ll swollen up and breathing with the difficulty. Had his master been deed away half an hour longer, the dog would have been dead. Immediate measures were taken for his relief, and there was some ope for his recovery. His dead carcass ld bring more at auction than would the ife of his would-be assassin, unless the ter lose the bidding.

Dry Wood.—We are informed by Capt.
Jones, of the mail steamer John H. Couch, that he was obliged to stop his engines sevetimes on his last up trip, to prevent the ignition of his paddle-wheels by the drift wood which now goes below in large quanti-

Portland Directory.—The collating of the requisite matter for a first class City Directory is again being pushed rapidly forward by Mr. Boshwiler, whose late protracted and serious illness rendered a suspension of the work necessary. We hope he may be able to prosecute his undertaking to a successful completion.

Still on the Rise.—The Willamette has risen better than a foot since Tuesday evening, making the rise thus far since low water but little less than seven feet. The Columbia, at Vancouver, has risen nearly five feet.

The Hunt was late last night, not arriving until after seven o'clock, owing to a freight of 120 Government mules, which were landed at Vancouver. She brought down twenty-five passengers.

Recorder's Court.—James Sweeny came before the Recorder yesterday, charged with "riotous, violent and disorderly conduct," and was fined $10 and costs, or five days in jail.

Robert Headly, charged with "riotous and violent conduct," fined $20 and costs, or ten days in jail.

Three individuals will attend the Recorder's levee this morning, at nine o'clock.

Grand Holiday Raffle.—J. W. J. Pierson, Esq., Agent for Grover & Baker Sewing Machines, has adopted an ingenious method of bringing the unexcelled embroidery and braid stitching of his machines to the notice of his fellow-citizens. He proposes to put up at raffle two magnificent broadcloth opera cloaks, valued at $50 each, one of which is red, embroidered with black and white, and the other white richly embroidered with heavy pink silk. Two children's dresses, valued at $30 each, of rich princess cloth, the girl's dress and cloak being drab with blue embroidery, and a boy's suit of brown, elegantly adorned with Sulferino braid. Half-a-dozen magnificently braided and embroidered cushion covers, and, lastly, two merino, silk-lined and beautifully braided morning gowns for gentlemen, valued at $20 each. These articles are put up for $200, and the chances at $2 50, the drawing to come off during the holydays. The embroidery is beyond all competition, the finest in the world. Our attention has been called to the superior advantages of the embroidering machines over all others, as sewing machines, and especially when that description of stitch is all the rage for ornamental purposes. Mr. Pierson says he defies all competition, and challenges the production of any instrument other than Grover & Baker's, which will execute work equally well and as durable on as many different qualities and classes of material. We saw him sewing, with fine thread, on double flannel, double muslin, double paper, single muslin, and dry harness leather, giving the same stitch, and connecting them all, without once breaking a thread, or impairing the harmony of the movement. Such work can't be beat.

A King or Emperor for the United States.—We heard this subject discussed a few evenings since, some favoring and others opposed, as all good Americans ought to be; but all agreed that Houston, Hastings & Co., of Montgomery street, corner of Sutter, San Francisco, were the Kings and Emperors in their line, for no firm ever yet started in California can possibly vie with them.

LIFE WASTED.—Valuable lives are often thrown away—lost—through ignorance of some of the simplest truths in nature, or errors of judgment in matters where error becomes a crime. Some of the best and wisest and greatest men of our race have passed from the world, in consequence of what might be considered a carelessness, recklessness, or an ignorance which is amazing, as found in minds like theirs. The immediate cause of Lord Bacon's death was sleeping in a damp bed. Any old woman, who "didn't know B from bull's foot," would have had more sense than that. Yet it was the fatal error of the greatest mind of his age and generation.

Washington Irving, whose name is so loved and honored and revered, hastened his death by taking the advice of the kind-hearted quack physician. Abbot Lawrence, the financier and philanthropist, brought on his last illness by an injudicious change of clothing.

Rachel, the greatest tragic actress of her time, took a cold which carried her to her grave, by riding from New York to Boston in cars not sufficiently warmed, on a bitter cold winter's night, immediately after a performance, which had heated up her whole system, far beyond its natural standard. A. Addison Alexander, for whom it is claimed that he was the best Bible scholar living, and that he had powers of mind not equalled in his day, died in the very prime of life, because "having a feeling almost bordering on contempt for physicians," he allowed his mortal malady to prey upon him secretly, and the day he died, he thought he was going to get well. Because he knew nothing about disease, he concluded, with all his resplendent intellect, that men who had made it a life-long study, knew nothing about it. The magnificent deduction cost him his life. And now another name come up to our notice, in the same connection, as illustrating the fact that the greatest minds are capable of follies most amazing. The philosopher, the scholar, the soldier and the Christian, were all blended in the name of Professor Mitchel the great astronomer, the gallant soldier and the resistless general. His was the greatest loss to the nation, up to this hour of the contest, and yet his life was literally thrown away by his own inconsiderate act, by doing deliberately what we would suppose the commonest mind in the nation would have regarded as exceedingly dangerous—and it is named here to benefit the living without prejudice to the honored and lamented dead. General Mitchel was attacked with symptoms of yellow fever, his physician acted promptly, and labored to restore the functions of the skin, to cause perspiration, which every professional man knows is the turning-point for life in that disease. It was eventually brought about, to the unspeakable joy of his medical attendant, Dr. Thomas T. Smiley, at 12 M., October 28, 1862, but when he returned, two hours later, his patient had been attacked with a chill, the pulse went up from 85 to 120, the General having got up and ordered his bed changed, while in this perspiring condition. Delirium set in, and he died, the attending surgeon leaving this record—"I am of the opinion that had General Mitchel remained in bed, and kept the skin in good condition, he would without doubt, have recovered."—Hall's Journal of Health.

THE CASE STATED.—Henry Winter Davis, at the late Union Mass Meeting at Baltimore, thus stated the case of the People against the Slaveholders with regard to the enlistment of slaves for the Union armies:

I have just returned from carrying the war into Africa. [Laughter.] Away down in Worcester county, they have found out in these latter days that there are more people than the 900 slaveholders of Worcester county. They have learned arithmetic enough to count that there are 15,000 white people, of whom only 900 are slaveholders, and, though they have very imperfect means of instruction in their public schools, they all know that 15,000—less 900, leaves 14,000 clear, and some over. [Laughter.] They have learned this other fact—that the policy of the Government of Maryland having heretofore been to vest power in the hands of the few, and to burden the many, for a preferred interest, it is time that that should cease. And now, everywhere the poor men have learned that it will no longer do to levy all the soldiers out of the white population, and leave the slaves of the secesh to cultivate their fields in peace and quiet, while poor men are dragged to the war and their families left to suffer at home—applause. Everywhere, where I have met the plain and uncultured men of the First District of Maryland, and I have explained to them that John W. Crisfield and Holliday Hicks and their friends desire that the enlistment of slaves shall stop, and taught them that the consequence of that is that white men must fill up the two drafts that impend over us, unanimously they have proclaimed that they are tired of discrimination in favor of slaveholders and against the non-slaveholding masses of the people—and everywhere with one unanimous shout, the declaration has come up that the negro, having shown himself competent for military service, shall no longer be left at home to labor for his masters, while poor men leave their fields uncultivated, their corn unplanted, their wheat unsown, their fields unplowed, then families at home unsupported while their richer secession, slaveholding neighbors stand at their side and reap the fruits of their absence. They have determined everywhere that they will let the President of the United States know by the voice of Maryland, down in her slaveholding region, that they approve and mean to maintain not merely the policy of conducting the war, but the policy of lightening the burdens of white men by allowing the negro to fight for his own emancipation.—[Applause.]

RATHER A HARD HIT.—Ministers catch it sometimes, as well as other people.

A minister was traveling where the road was difficult to find, and requested a man by the wayside to direct him, naming the place where he wished to go. "Well," says the hedger and ditcher, "keep on just as you are now going, about a mile and a half, there at the cross roads you will see a man or some one who will direct you to the left a couple of miles, and there at the fork of the road is another minister, who will direct you to the right about three miles, and so on." Every now and then across the road in a manner as to mislead you which road to take. "Ah," says the parson, "what do you call parsons?" "Why," says the other, "those things which stand up at the cross and fork of the road with something like a hand on them." "I am afraid my friends you mean," said the parson, "why do you call them ministers?" said the preacher. "Because they are always pointing the way to other people, and never go themselves."

PERTINENT QUESTIONS.—Has a man who rebels against his country any right to expect protection from it? Has a rebel who owns slaves a right to demand protection for himself, and also for his property, while he is engaged in trying to destroy the Government that he asks protection from? In other words, is slavery, which seeks to destroy the United States Government, should the Government protect slavery, or annihilate it?—Mariposa Gazette.
